NMFS Adjusts General Category Atlantic Bluefin Tuna Retention Limit and Waives Restricted Fishing Days for November 2007-January 2008

The National Marine Fisheries Service (NMFS) adjusts the daily Atlantic bluefin tuna (BFT) retention limit for vessels permitted in the commercial Atlantic tunas General category and the Highly Migratory Species (HMS) Charter/Headboat category for the time period of November 1, 2007, through January 31, 2008, to three large medium or giant BFT, measuring 73 inches (curved fork length) or greater, per vessel per day/trip. This action is being taken to provide enhanced commercial fishing opportunities to harvest the established General category quota. These BFT retention limits are effective for all areas, except for the Gulf of Mexico. The Gulf of Mexico is designated as spawning grounds for BFT and therefore NMFS does not allow vessels to target BFT while fishing in this area.

All previously scheduled Restricted Fishing Days (RFDs) scheduled for the months of November and December 2007 have been waived.

NMFS may determine that additional actions are necessary to ensure available quota is not exceeded or to enhance scientific data collection from, and fishing opportunities in, all geographic areas. Subsequent adjustments to the daily retention limits, if any, will be announced through publication in the Federal Register. In addition, permit holders may visit the following website: www.hmspermits.gov, or call the Atlantic Tunas Information Line at (888) 872-8862 or (978) 281-9260 for updates on quota monitoring and retention limit adjustments.

This notice is a courtesy to BFT fishery permit holders to help keep you informed about your fishery. Official notice of Federal fishery actions is made through filing such notice with the Office of the Federal Register. For further information, contact Brad McHale or Sarah McLaughlin, 978-281-9260.
